The Hadley School for the Blind

The Hadley School for the Blind is a distance education school that offers tuition-free programs for people who are blind, their families, and professionals and service providers working in the blindness field. Hadley's course catalog lists more than 90 courses across many interest areas such as; Braille reading and writing, languages, technology, independent living, academics, and leisure activities. For more information, please contact The Hadley School for the Blind at 1-800-526-9909 or visit their website at www.hadley.edu.

NLS Kids Zone

The National Library Service for the Blind and Physically Handicapped has added a new webpage for children called Kids Zone. An online catalog for kids, information on children's magazines, and a link to the Library of Congress Kids and Families website are just some of the things you will find there. Kids Zone may be accessed through a link on the NLS web site at www.loc.gov/nls, or directly at www.loc.gov/nls/children/index.html.
