Northwest Georgia Talking Book Library

January 2010

Volume 35 Issue 1

We Have a New Name

We have changed the name of the Rome Subregional Library to Northwest Georgia Talking Book Library. A year ago, the counties of Catoosa, Chattooga, Dade, Fannin, Gordon, Murray, Towns, Union, Walker, and Whitfield joined the Rome Subregional Library following the closing of the LaFayette Subregional Library. In order for our library's name to be more representative of the area that we now serve we have decided to change the name to Northwest Georgia Talking Book Library. Our telephone numbers, library's hours, and our location will remain the same.

Telephone: 888-263-0769 (toll-free) or 706-236-4618

Library Hours: Monday-Friday 8:30am-4:30pm

Address: 205 Riverside Parkway NE, Rome, GA 30161-2913

Georgia's Talking Book Centers Seeking Public Opinion

Georgia Libraries for Accessible Statewide Services (GLASS) has announced proposed changes in statewide service that should result in more efficient, effective service to citizens with visual or physical disabilities that prevent the use of standard print material.

A series of public meetings will give consumers and providers in each service area an opportunity to learn about and respond to the draft plan. GLASS and Georgia Public Library Service (GPLS) encourage everyone who uses or is interested in the service to attend and share opinions and information that will help the planning team develop a final map for delivering the best service possible with available resources.

We encourage everyone interested to attend one of the meetings in their area.

A meeting will be held in Rome, GA at 1:00pm, January 28, 2010 at the Rome Floyd County Library, 205 Riverside Parkway. For those living near the Lafayette area a 5:00pm meeting will be held

January 28th at the LaFayette-Walker County Public Library, 305 South Duke Street, LaFayette, GA.
